

My Home Move Deploying LexisOne™ to Support Business Expansion

LONDON, U.K. – 20 April 2016 – My Home Move Ltd \(myhomemove\), the UK's largest provider of mover conveyancing services, has chosen to deploy LexisOne™, an enterprise resource planning solution for legal, powered by Microsoft Dynamics® AX, from LexisNexis® Enterprise Solutions, a provider of technology solutions to professional services firms. LexisOne will deliver a modern business management platform enabling myhomemove to adopt best practice methodologies to manage its multi-site and multi-entity operation and support the firm's ambitious growth plans. myhomemove is building its new headquarters in Leicester and plans are afoot to recruit 100 more staff taking the number of employees to 850 across the firm's seven offices.

A strategic investment by the organisation, LexisOne will be initially deployed within myhomemove's finance department, creating a common data structure and seamless environment across its business areas to ensure a 'single version of the truth'. The department will support doubling in size of business volume in tune with growth plans, with only a minimal increase in headcount. This will be facilitated by the automated processes and advanced, dynamic reporting capabilities offered by LexisOne.

"We need a solution that is more than just an accounts system," explained Paul Tennant, IT Director at myhomemove. "To support our business expansion plans, we need complete visibility of our operation and to this end it is imperative that all the financial areas are integrated. LexisOne will give us a single business management system to help us streamline the various components of the operation. Additionally, it will give us a development platform to create new applications within LexisOne to help meet evolving business requirements immediately and in the long term."

myhomemove is already a current user of next generation legal workflow and case management system, Lexis® Visualfiles™. With both Visualfiles and LexisOne integrated, myhomemove will benefit greatly from processing efficiency across multiple business areas and enhanced business continuity.

"Organisations today need flexibility to adapt in a changing business environment," Andy Sparkes, General Manager at LexisNexis Enterprise Solutions commented. "This in turns requires quick decision making based on real-time, accurate business data. Visualfiles and LexisOne will provide myhomemove a compelling and reliable platform upon which to conduct business operation and achieve its business growth goals. myhomemove's adoption of LexisOne further cements our already long standing partnership with the firm. We are delighted."
